Values

The Marist Brothers intend that their work and that of their colleagues whatever their affiliation, will consistently evidence

- a commitment to PRESENCE knowing people, being among them and spending time with them, being a good example for them, affecting others by who we are;
- a commitment to SIMPLICITY in relationships, settings and initiatives to be always honest, straightforward and unpretentious;
- a commitment to FAMILY SPIRIT so that interactions, relationships and priorities for action have more in common with the way loving families behave than with the ways of enterprise;
- a commitment to the LOVE OF OUR WORK enthusiasm, generosity, doing good quietly, keen to be effective, high expectations, open to new learning, all features of the way Marists approach our work;
- a commitment to doing things IN THE WAY OF Mary, the Mother of Jesus: doing things the way we imagine Mary did them, with motherly care, with patience, with endurance, with attentiveness. Bringing good news.

Marist Solidarity Cambodia to Date

Marist Solidarity Cambodia (MSC) was formed from the merger of Marist Mission Australia, (MMA) and Youth with Disabilities Foundation for Education and Employment, (Yodifee).

In 1998 the Marist Brothers from the Province of Sydney Australia, together with members of staff, Cambodian and foreign, established LaValla School, an elementary school for young Cambodians with physical disabilities. The commitment made in 1998 to help young, physically handicapped Cambodians go as far as possible with their formal schooling meant that members of the first group to complete their elementary schooling at LaValla looked to the school for further assistance. For a period of time LaValla and some staff provided accommodation for ex-students beginning high school.

In 2002 Yodifee was established with the assistance of the Marist Fathers of Australia. Its purpose was to support young Cambodians with physical disabilities as they accessed secondary and tertiary education or sought opportunities for skills training. Further, Yodifee was committed to helping those young people to find employment or to establish themselves independently in small businesses. In 2005 again with the assistance of the Australian Marist Fathers, Villa Maria was built, and LaValla and Yodifee separated to operate independently yet collaboratively.

In 2010 LaValla School and Yodifee began the process of amalgamation to become Marist Solidarity Cambodia. Now, in 2013, Marist Solidarity Cambodia encompassing LaValla School, Villa Maria and all of the projects initiated by Yodifee, operates under the aegis of Australian Marist Solidarity and is governed locally by its own Board of Directors.

Chairman's Reflection

In September of each year since 2006 we have had at LaValla a camp for children and young people with physical disabilities, all of them new to Marist Solidarity Cambodia. They come from different provinces, live-in for a week and participate in a mix of activities, some educational, some recreational, some for fun. Our aim has always been to give them experiences that are different and memorable.

Watching our young visitors arrive, deal with the strangeness of it all, meet and get-to-know and overcome any homesickness, is often fascinating and always inspirational. Initially, nothing about them is more obvious than their disability but in no time at all their courage and their keenness command most of our attention.

The transforming effect of a beautiful place, interesting things to do and caring people is wonderful to witness and that combination may well explain why our organization has acquired a reputation for making a difference in the lives of the young people who spend time with us, perhaps in the camp, certainly as students. This Report re-visits the activities of 2013 that constitute our efforts to make that difference. There is much to remember appreciatively.

Particularly commendable have been the efforts of our leadership to improve MSC's administration by building up the capacity of our various project managers; the commitment to a greatly enhanced physiotherapy service; pleasing developments and some successes in our job placement program.

Our report reveals also some of those realities which make our work more problematic by the year. Among our projects are those set up for training but now, after some years of trialling, adjusting and re-imagining, are proving to be too costly. Add to that the steady increases in the costs food and fuel: we are now faced with some hard decisions as to what we can continue to do and what we must change.

However much Marist Solidarity Cambodia has to curtail its activities in order to remain solvent our first concern is to be able to work with as many young handicapped as we can, educating, affirming and assisting them, ensuring that their futures offer better prospects for their having come into our care. Nowhere do we feel that more than when we meet our campers and those just getting started with MSC.

Br Terry Heinrich

Message from the Head of Finance Committee

As with all organisations such as Marist Solidarity Cambodia, there are ever increasing demands for our assistance. Funding our work throughout 2014 has been challenging and an increasingly time consuming part of our work. We have been assisted in this by the staff of Marist Solidarity Australia who have used their worldwide contacts and expertise in preparing funding applications to secure funding for 2014 and into the future as well as assistance with financial planning and management.

At the local level work has been done with the finance team to improve their administration skills and also we have worked with the individual project managers to improve their ability to use and account for funds as agreed with the individual funding partners.

A process has begun whereby we are able to more closely monitor and evaluate the on-going financial situation of each project and we are able to give a more comprehensive report on the financial situation of each project as well as that of the whole organisation.

Br Tony Burrows

Mr Ouch Nimul

- to provide hostel accommodation for young, disabled Cambodians wanting to pursue their schooling beyond elementary level;
- to offer guidance and medical care, meals, transportation and essential school supplies together with supplementary tuition and access to rehabilitation services:
- to provide young, disabled Cambodians with opportunities for vocational training, apprenticeships, employment and assistance with small business establishment. The range of skills includes electronic repair, farming, hairdressing, motorbike repair, retail, sewing and wood sculpting. A revolving fund option is available.

Our Collaborators and Those for Whom We We Work

MSC looks for opportunities to collaborate with other stakeholders to adapt and replicate our project activities throughout Cambodia. All of MSC's projects are intended to facilitate or provide formal and informal education programmes which, in conjunction with Ministry of Education Youth and Sports (MOEYS) or with their approval, will assist children and youth with disabilities towards self-sustaining employment.

· Children and Youth with Disabilities and their families

MSC's primary beneficiaries are children and young people with physical disabilities throughout Cambodia. Among them – those who cannot easily access rehabilitation; those aged between 10 and 17 eligible for support to attend government schools and vocational training centres; those aged 11 to 17 for whom LaValla School is an option and those aged between 18 and 35 eligible for tertiary education and employment. MSC wants also to provide livelihood support for poor parents.

· Government, civil servants and social services

The national strategy for the prevention of disability and for the rehabilitation of persons with disabilities requires an approach to service delivery that is integrated, participatory and decentralized. Several ministries share responsibility for addressing issues to do with disability: the Ministry of Social Affairs, Veterans and Youth Rehabilitation (MOSVY), the Ministry of Education, Youths and Sports (MOEYS), and the Ministry of Health. Initiatives occur at National, Provincial and local levels and MSC seeks to collaborate at all levels e.g.in advocacy work with national and provincial bodies; in policy monitoring at the national level; in program implementation, with other institutions and local authorities.

Disabled People's Organisations, other NGOs and Vocational Training Centres

MSC is part of the Cambodian network of organizations whose focus is people with disabilities. The network includes the Disability Action Council (DAC) and the Cambodian Disabled Persons organization (CDPO). MSC collaborates with other NGOs that are service providers. Komar Pika Foundation provides a day care and educational centre at MSC's farm in Kampot. For vocational training MSC collaborates with the Jesuit Training Center, Banteay Priep.

Progresses in Year 2013

LaValla School Project

LaValla School aims at educating and caring for children and young people with physical disabilities. It is the only government approved school doing so. The educational program at LaValla incorporates the Cambodian Ministry's curriculum with English, computing, music, art, health and physical education and sewing. On-site medical and therapeutic care are available at LaValla.

The program engaged in child-centred learning and Educational performance appraisal. It has been run to support 100 children as they receive primary school education through various subjects.

The program aimed to facilitate the integration of 30 graduates into government junior high schools and for the continuation of their mainstream schooling in their home communities.

Running the music program

A music programme in Classical and Pop Music is also offered to those students who show talent in music. These students perform in the concerts that are put on to thank the visitors to LaValla. This gives them experience in presenting to a "real" audience, and improves their confidence and self esteem. 28 students are studying pop and traditional music, 5 female and 23 male and 6 are from Villa Maria. Five music teachers are involved.

Sokhas did not receive very much education because her village was a long distance from the nearest school and her family was very poor. In 2008 she received a scholarship to enable her to resume her education at the local school. This included school uniform, school supplies and, most importantly, a means of transport. Because of this support, Sokhas graduated high school in 2012 and is now continuing her education at university where she is studying Accounting. With the ongoing support, Sokhas hopes to work in the Banking sector on graduation.

Important Events and Development

Piggery project approved.

With funding from Aiutare i Bambini the farm at Kampot is being developed into a commercial piggery. This involves renovation and extension of existing buildings and introduction of an enhanced breeding programme.

Government Support for Teachers of Students with Disabilities.

Towards the end of 2013 the Prime Minister announced that the Government would provide salaries to teachers of young people with disabillities.13 of our staff were approved to receive wage support from Ministry of education youth and sports

Physiotherapy centre.

This year we commenced work on establishing a Therapy Centre at Lavalla. We will employ two trained physiotherapists who will set up individual programmes for the students. As well as the equipment, use is being made of the swimming pool for hydrotherapy. This is being funded by Marist Mission Centre, Australia.

Marist Solidarity Australia – channel of fund source.

Br Allen Sherry and his team in Australia have undertaken to be responsible for a large part of our fund raising effort. Their extensive contacts and experience in writing funding proposals are a great help to MSC staff. They are also assisting with budget planning and monitoring and reporting to donors. We are very grateful to them for this assistance.

Remarkable - MSC

For people with disabilities in Cambodia life can be and often is difficult. Very difficult. They have much to contend with.

- At that critical time when a disability seems likely or when a diagnosis is needed, many families in rural areas simply cannot reach or cannot afford medical services.
- Opportunities for elementary schooling and education beyond that level are simply not available where access, distance and costs can all constitute barriers.
- Chances of employment in even reasonably paying jobs are few and far between. Disabilities limit the options and not uncommonly there's a perceived risk in employing a person with a physical handicap.
- Provision made for people with disabilities by way of ramps, special toilets, additional space, are negligible. Cambodians with disabilities have to make do or find other ways of managing. And of course they do.
- People with disabilities are bound to come up against other Cambodians who assume that any sort of disability brings with it diminished intelligence.
- There persists the notion that people with disabilities are culpable, that the handicap they bear is punishment for bad deeds in a former existence. That notion can be used to justify discriminatory and cruel behavior.

Marist Solidarity Cambodia, in all its various projects, challenges these attitudes and these realities. Its commitment to young people with disabilities is wholehearted to the point of being, in some respects, countercultural.

MSC welcome into its ambit young people who cannot read and write and sets out to give them basic schooling, the chance of progressing to secondary and even tertiary education, the option of training in particular skills and the offer of assistance in the search for a job. It's comprehensive and it's generous. Most of our organization's interactions with the young handicapped are one-to-one and a great deal of energy goes into identifying and meeting their needs, individually.

Now, because of the steady increase in our numbers, time required of staff and the ever-increasing costs, the extent of MSC's commitment is a ccentuated: the complexity of our operation increases; it becomes harder to find the funds we need; more is required of our staff. All of this could be a reason for dismay even discouragement. On the contrary ...

Our work for and with young Cambodians with disabilities began with the belief and the hope that we could improve their lives and we have. We continue to be committed to opening up more and better options for them. Each is important to us and we delight in the progress each makes.

Acknowledgements

Whatever is accomplished annually on behalf of the young people of MSC is the outcome of a lot of collaboration among like-minded groups. We are grateful to the Royal Government of Cambodia which, through the Ministry of Education and Ministry of Education Youth and Sports at national and provincial levels supports our efforts, particularly in regard to the integration of young people with disabilities into high school and tertiary institutions. We are through these Ministries.

We could not maintain our program without the generous support of our funders. We have listed them earlier in this report and are grateful for their confidence in MSC and for the finance they make available for our work. A number of them have been our collaborators since we began this work fifteen years ago.

We are, every year, surprised and delighted by unexpected financial support. There are always limitations to contend with in the organization's budge: the arrival, occasionally of additional funds always means our being able to do the things we want to do but cannot for lack of finance.

We are fortunate for the collaboration we enjoy with other non-government organizations, local and international. Our thanks to Jesuit Service Cambodia, Disability Action Council, Cambodian Disabled Persons Organization, Veteran International, Cambodia Trust, Cambodian Development Mission for Disability and Komar Pika Foundation.

The following companies have been reliable providers, of opportunities for employment especially. It is a source of great satisfaction to see our ex-students accepted into the working community. We welcome this opportunity to acknowledge and thank to Kyovaseikan Garment factory, Ky In Youn Garment factory, MPA Security Guard, Korean Church, Kim Sroun Motorbike Shop, Village Work Limited, Nai Heang Motor Shop, Rehap Craft Cambodia, You Can Company and Harvest Dried Fruit Company.
